Your sponsorship will help ensure our 2019 Justice for All Luncheon has the backing it needs to be our most successful fundraiser yet!

The event brings together prominent members of the legal community, community leaders, and individuals and organizations who impact our work and the lives of the people we serve. Benefits of sponsorship include the opportunity to reach 400+ individual supporters, as well as community leaders in the legal, government and social service sectors.

On any given day, you can find Legal Aid staff preventing a family's illegal eviction, saving a disabled individual's wrongfully denied benefits, or appearing in court for a victim of domestic violence.

In the United States, low-income residents are only entitled to an attorney in criminal matters. For all other civil matters—such as unlawful eviction, denial of much needed health benefits, or domestic violence—low-income residents must hire a private attorney to navigate the courts. The national average cost for a private attorney is $200- $400 an hour and more than half of our clients make less than $15,000 a year. The gap is clear. Our community's most vulnerable families are one injustice away from homelessness simply because they cannot afford to access our justice system.
